STATESMEN AT THE GENEVA MEETING

Baron Aloisi, Head of the Italian delegation

Mr. Anthony Eden, British Minister for League of Nations Affairs

M. Maxim Litvinoff, President of the League Council

OPPOSITION AT GENEVA

Meeting Postponed To Friday

Geneva, August 1.
In accordance with general expectation the compromise formula evolved by M. Laval, Mr. Anthony Eden and M. Litvinoff, is meeting with considerable opposition by the parties to the dispute. In order to gain time for efforts to reconcile the opposing views, it has been decided to postpone the League Council meeting scheduled for Thursday, until Friday afternoon.

The postponement is chiefly due to Italy's refusal to accept the proposals, in so far as they provide for Abyssinia's participation in the negotiations to be conducted between Britain, France and Italy on the general aspects of the treaty of 1903.

Italy moreover strongly objects to these negotiations being initiated by the League Council, and furthermore demands that a time limit be fixed for the conclusion of the Three Power negotiations, which otherwise might be drawn out for six months or more.

No official information as yet is available concerning Abyssinia's attitude, but it is generally anticipated that Addis Ababa will not acquiesce readily in having the scope for the deliberations of the arbitration commission limited to the Walwal incident without reference to the question of the delimitation of the frontiers.

WIDE DIFFERENCES

Views on the prospects of the Anglo-French formula differ widely, but the best informed circles are inclined to believe that despite the objections raised by Italy, an auspicious start has been made towards a settlement of the dispute.

M. Laval and Mr. Eden conferred on Thursday forenoon with Baron Aloisi and the Abyssinian delegate, Professor Jaze, but it is understood the discussion did not lead to any tangible result.

According to as yet unconfirmed rumours, the three power conference between Britain, France and Italy at Ventimiglia or some other Italian city, is being contemplated in the event of no agreement being reached at Geneva. The fact that negotiations concerning the Abyssinian problem is exclusively in the hands of these Great Powers and that none of the other members of the League Council uttered a single word during Wednesday's debate, is giving rise to some unfavourable comment in League circles, where it is pointed out that the Polish and Czechoslovakian delegates were conspicuous by their absence and that the entire proceedings afforded further proof of the insignificant role played by the members of the smaller States in any dispute in which one of the big powers are concerned.—Transocean Kuo Min.

DANZIG TRADE IMPASSE

Polish Customs Law Effects

Danzig, Aug. 1.

Such catastrophic consequences have followed from the proclamation of the Polish Foreign Minister of July 18, forbidding the clearance at the Danzig Customs Houses of imports destined for Poland, that the Senate on Thursday empowered President Greiser to take all emergency measures he considered imperative for safeguarding the provisioning and other primary needs of the Danzig population.

M. Greiser thereupon instructed the Danzig officials to allow certain classes of goods, indispensable to life to enter the Free City without the payment of the scheduled import duties, but quantitatively only to the extent compatible with the safety of the Danzig currency.

Simultaneously M. Greiser made an official declaration to the Polish Government's representative in Danzig, Minister Pappe, that the Danzig Senate is prepared to negotiate with the Polish Government to clear all the difficulties at issue between the two states.

The Danzig Government also issued on Thursday a commentary on the steps taken, stating that the present economic crisis in Danzig arising from the Polish decree of July 18, exceeds in gravity everything hitherto known. As the imports from Poland can no longer be cleared from Danzig, all Poland's sea borne imports are forced to pass by way of the rival port of Gdynia, so that Danzig's function as a sea port for Poland would virtually and actually cease.

Hence if Poland insists on the maintenance of her attitude Danzig will be compelled to reconstruct its economic structure entirely, importing its foodstuffs and raw materials from countries that accept Danzig's industrial products in exchange.—Transocean Kuo Min.

NEW INDUSTRY FOR THE CLYDE

Manufacture Of Salvage Gear

Negotiations have reached an advanced stage for the establishment of a new industry on Clyde-side. The firm concerned, the Argonaut Corporation, Ltd., of Glasgow and London, owners of the salvage vessel Orphir, now fitting out at Dalmuir, propose to manufacture salvage equipment.

The intention is to set up a new factory in the Clyde area, equipped with all the latest machinery and plant for this specialised industry. It is understood that the site ultimately selected will have ready access to the river front.

ONE-MAN SUBMARINES

The principal products of the new factory will be ingenious apparatus known as "one-man submarines."

The "one-man submarine" has been devised by the inventor of the Tritonia diving dress, and it has been designed for examining large areas of the bed of the ocean, with a view to locating submarine products and wrecks.

The apparatus, which is operated by one man, is indeed a miniature submarine, capable of making evolutions in all directions, of ascending, descending, going ahead or astern.

It is also equipped with adequate means of lighting its immediate surroundings, and it gives promise of immense possibilities in submarine films and photographs and in studying underwater conditions. The facilities this apparatus offers will be of obvious service for warship purposes as well as for commercial work.

It is understood that the complete apparatus will cost about £30,000, and the Argonaut Corporation, who have all the rights for manufacturing this product, have already received several inquiries from foreign sources.

As the design and manufacture of these "submarines" must necessarily be of a high standard, the workers who will be employed by the company will all need to be highly skilled craftsmen.

The company also proposes to manufacture the Tritonia diving dress and a wide range of equipment employed in modern salvage operations. It is expected that an official announcement concerning the site to be selected for the new factory will be made towards the end of this month, and the new plant and machinery will be installed before the autumn.

EACH MAY EXPECT INJURY TO SELF OR FRIEND

One person out of every 100 in the United States was injured in an automobile accident last year, it is reported in the current issue of the National Safety Council's publication, "Public Safety." This estimate is based on a total of 1,250,000 injuries and a population of approximately 125,000,000 persons. Going further with his proportional presentation of the subject, the report continues:

"Following this line of reasoning, one of each two persons now living may expect to be injured within the next 50 years, one out of four within the next 25 years and one out of five in the next 20 years."

"Probably you have near relatives and close friends to a total of at least 20. If so, the above figures mean this to you: Unless each person in your group is more careful than the average person, some one of the 20 will be injured or killed in a motor vehicle accident within the next five years."

MOTOR ACCIDENTS IN AMERICA

People, apparently, are learning to take care of themselves everywhere except on streets and highways. Deaths due to motor-vehicle accidents rose from 4,227 in 1913 to approximately 38,000 last year. Meanwhile, deaths caused by all other accidents declined from 78,233 in 1913 to about 65,000 last year. It is true that a great many more motor vehicles were on the roads in 1934 than in 1913, but it is also true

Meantime the Argonaut Corporation are busy making plans for their steamer Orphir to leave the Clyde early next week for the scene of the Lusitania.

LUSITANIA SALVAGE

As already announced in "The Glasgow Herald," the purpose of the expedition is to carry out salvage operations with a view to the recovery of some of the treasures locked in the sunken liner's strong-room, and also to take cinematograph and still photographs of the ship. After the Orphir locates the Lusitania she will return to the Clyde for the installation of additional equipment, the first voyage being purely experimental.

A representative of "The Glasgow Herald" was shown over the salvage vessel Orphir yesterday at Dalmuir, and inspected the scientific equipment which has been installed during recent months.

The wireless apparatus is the most complete ever fitted on a salvage vessel, and it is of the same standard as that installed on the Cunard-White Star liner Queen Mary, having been supplied by the International Marine Radio Company, Ltd., New Southgate, London, which has also supplied the vessel's direction finder.

The direction finder is so designed as to locate the vessel's position, either by line bearing or cross bearing.

SCIENTIFIC INSTRUMENTS

Other instruments on the Orphir include a Marconi sounding device which indicates the depth of water by an electric spark, and an Admiralty system of echo sounding gear. The latter instrument, by Messrs Henry Hughes, London, gives a graph indicating the depth and formation of the sea bed. Another instrument, showing the extent of the vessel's equipment, is a 9in base range finder.

Captain Russell, commander of the Orphir and leader of the expedition to the Lusitania, informed "The Glasgow Herald" that they hoped to "get up steam" this week and to have the vessel ready to leave the Clyde by Wednesday next week.

Mr. A. J. Jarratt, who has joined the ship as diver, will carry out the salvage operations on the Lusitania by means of the Tritonia diving dress. Mr. Jarratt has successfully tried out this diving equipment in Loch Ness, where he descended to a depth of 450ft. last year.

Bravo, Britain!

The British motor industry has reason to be pleased with the results of the sporting events when British cars scored signal successes in France and Germany. At Le Mans the Lagonda won the Grand Prix d'Endurance with a twenty-four hours' demonstration of speed and reliability, against the famous cars of France and Italy. It is the first time since 1930 that a British car has won this much-coveted honour, and those who drove and those who prepared the two big British cars in this contest deserve heartfelt congratulations. The Rudge-Whitworth Cup Race, on formula, was also won by a British car—an Aston Martin—while two other machines from this country—a Singer and a Riley—second and third.

In Germany, on the Nurburg Ring, a team of four British-made E.R.A. cars secured first, third, fourth, and fifth places in the 113-mile race for cars not exceeding 1,500 c.c. capacity against a representative German and Italian entry. As these cars were built by enthusiasts for patriotic reasons, their success is doubly satisfactory.

It is not without interest that the visit of the E.R.A. "stable" was due to an invitation from Germany after the recent F.R.A. success in the Isle of Man.

that the population increased 31 per cent in the same period. An increase in motoring was accompanied by an increase in traffic fatalities, but an increase in population was accompanied by a decrease in accidental deaths in homes, factories and other fields of human activity.

ENGINEERING AND BUILDING

THE BATTERSEA STATION

Proposed Extension

At their meeting on Tuesday, February 12, the London County Council considered a long report from the Housing and Public Health Committee on the subject of the Battersea generating station of the London Power Company. The immediate occasion was a letter from the Electricity Commissioners inviting the observations of the Council on an application from the company to install three additional boilers, and thus to complete the first half of the station. Opportunity was, however, also taken to review the whole of the controversy, which has centred round this plant, and especially to call attention to the recent report of the Government Chemist Committee in view of the terms of this report, it was agreed, in a conference with the representatives of the Battersea, Chelsea, Kensington and Westminster Borough Councils, that it would be difficult to oppose the proposed extension on the grounds of danger to public health.

At the same time, the opinion was unanimously expressed that, in order to ensure that the gas washing plant was maintained at its present high degree of efficiency, and that "advantage was taken of further developments in sulphur removal, the Commissioners should be asked to attach more definite conditions to the extension of the station than apply to the existing plant. This has already been done at the new station at Fulham, where there is a stipulation that the most efficient methods available shall be used continuously for the elimination of smoke and grit, for the prevention of the discharge of sulphur and its compounds into the atmosphere and for the avoidance of noise and vibration.

It is also laid down that the Commissioners may require the installation of more efficient arrangements than those already in use, and that any such equipment shall be maintained and operated to their satisfaction. Apparatus for the continuous measurement of sulphur emission is to be provided, and the station is to be open to inspection at any time. It was, therefore, recommended that consent should only be given to the Battersea extension on these conditions, that such consent should apply only to the three particular units in question, and that the local authorities concerned should be informed when any further extensions are contemplated.

Further, as one argument in favour of large power stations was that it would enable small stations to be closed, it was suggested that the Commissioners might be asked to what extent this counter-balancing factor has been brought into play up to the present, and how the proposed extension is likely to accelerate progress in that direction.

CONTROL OF THE MISSOURI

United States Army engineers are about to construct a great dam and reservoir at Fort Peck, Mont., which will mean the end of a long period of destruction caused by the Missouri river changing its course unexpectedly, flooding miles of land and making river traffic impossible.

At a cost of $80,000,000 and over a four-year period of construction, a dam two miles long and 275 feet high will enclose a reservoir covering 332 square miles and having a shore line of 2,500 miles. There, during high-water periods, the excess flow of the river will be stored and released as needed to maintain a navigable channel. When this big project is completed there will be navigation all the way from South Dakota to the Gulf of Mexico, and floods will become a thing of the past.

Already, a construction town, which will have an estimated population of 10,000 is being built, and forty railway trucks are transporting G.E. motors and control equipment from factories in New York to the site. These

ACCIDENTS

Their Cause And Prevention

In the second of the three Shaw lectures, which was delivered before the Royal Society of Arts on Monday, March 4, Mr. G. Stevenson Taylor, F.R.S., Deputy Chief Inspector of Factories, described a number of typical accidents, which had resulted from the pre-disposing factors scheduled by Mr. D.R. Wilson the week before. These factors, he pointed out, might be divided into the personal and the impersonal. The former included fatigue, speed of production, inexperience and accident proneness; and the latter plant layout, lighting, heating and ventilation. Though the mass-effect of these factors on accident causation could be ascertained, their influence in connection with any individual accident could only be determined in a limited number of cases. For instance, if a man fell through an unfenced opening in a floor, inadequate illumination of the vicinity might be an important factor. But, even if the illumination were adequate, it might still be a factor if the man had defective eyesight. In any event the over-ruling cause was the unfenced condition of the opening. In fact, an accident was always directly caused by some physical object or condition, and investigations were therefore generally directed to the determination of these, other matters being regarded as subsidiary.

Classifications of accident based on these main causes are, as is well known, set out in the Annual Report of the Chief Inspector of Factories, but a table given by Mr. Taylor showed that in 1933 688 fatalities and 112,572 accidents occurred, and that these could be distributed over 21 causations and 30 industrial groups.

Contrary to expectations, machinery accounted for only about one-fifth of the accidents in factories, the actual number being 23,962, of which 163 were fatalities. The percentage due to this cause was 20.5 per cent. of the total and 23.7 per cent. of the fatalities. Of these totals, 1,301 non-fatal and 35 fatal accidents were due to transmission machinery, and 137 non-fatal and 18 fatal to shafting, a state of affairs which, as has often been pointed out, is largely due to the impression that smooth clean shafting can be approached with safety. This is, of course, quite erroneous. Risks taken with belts also lead to unnecessary accidents, though lack of proper fencing and insufficient maintenance were other pre-disposing causes.

The remedy for this state of affairs, as Mr. Taylor hints, and as Mr. Wilson pointed out in the first lecture, is easier to discover than to apply. Since 1844 the fencing of certain machinery has been compulsory in all textile factories, and this requirement was extended to other industries by subsequent Acts, while safety provisions have generally been "fettered up."

Under the consolidating Act of 1901, the Secretary of State was empowered to make codes of special regulations for dangerous trades and such codes have been issued for 43 industries and processes; while, by the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1923, he is able to direct certain classes of factories to set up safety organisations, and experience shows that these bodies whether voluntary or compulsory, can do much to eliminate causes and to reduce accident rates. Nevertheless, it is obvious that much remains to be done, and ways, for they are numerous, must therefore be sought to bring about an improvement in the existing state of affairs.

motors will equip four huge dredges, booster barges and land stations for pumps and winches. A power line from the Rainbow generating station of the Montana Power Co. is being built which will be 287 miles in length. The project is being financed by the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works.

INLAND WATER SURVEY

Committee Set Up To Advise

The Minister of Health, Sir Hilton Young, announced in the House of Commons, on December 7, that after consultation with the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research, and other Departments, and with Sir Godfrey Collins, the Secretary of State for Scotland, it had been decided to set up a committee to advise on the inland water survey for Great Britain. It is with considerable interest that we read the recent official announcement that the Committee had been appointed.

The chairman is Sir Henry G. Lyons, F.R.S., a former director of the Geological Survey and of the Survey Department, Egypt, and of the Meteorological Office.

The other members are Sir Charles H. Bird, chairman of the Cardiff Corporation Water Committee; Professor Emeritus W. S. Boulton, formerly Professor of Geology and Dean of the Faculty of Science of the University of Birmingham; Mr. G. Dallas, chairman of the Nene Catchment Board; Mr. G. J. Griffiths, M. Inst. C.E., chief engineer of the Thames Conservancy Board; Lt.-Col. F. Hibbert, M.C., M. Inst. C.E., water engineer, Liverpool Corporation; Sir Clement D. M. Hindley, K.C., M. Inst. C.E., a member of the Advisory Committee of the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research; Mr. S. R. Hobday, chairman of the Canal Commission, and general manager of the Lee Conservancy Board; Mr. W. A. Millar, secretary of the Scottish Steelmakers' Association; Mr. D. Paul, chairman of the Falkirk Water Board; and Mr. B. Verity, estates manager of Calico Printers' Association, Limited. The secretary of the Committee, to whom all communications should be addressed, is Mr. I. F. Armer, Ministry of Health, Whitehall, London, S.W.1.

In addition to its main work on the inland water survey, the Committee will advise on the progress of the measures undertaken and on the further measures required, and will issue an annual report. Some surprise will, no doubt, be felt by many at the somewhat ungracious disregard in the composition of the committee of the work which the British Association has already put in on this subject. It might quite reasonably have been thought, in view of what they have contributed to the Association would have been invited to suggest representatives, and we greatly regret that, from what we gather, no courtesy of this kind appears to have been thought necessary.

SALINOMETERS FOR QUEEN MARY

Messrs W. Crockett and Sons, Ltd., Glasgow, have received the order for a complete outfit of Crockett patent electric salinometers for installation in the Cunard-White Star liner Queen Mary.

This outfit, which is the most comprehensive yet fitted on ship-board, provides a complete check on the purity of the feed water system, which will be tested at no fewer than 18 separate points. Instead of all being grouped on one main control board, as on the Normandie, the present outfit is sub-divided for greater convenience of observation, there being altogether five groups in the engine rooms, turbo-generator rooms, etc.

So as to ensure immediate warning of any leaking of salt water into the feed system, notification is given both by warning lamps and bells of any salt, the exact amount of which in any circuit can then be read on the indicating instruments by operating the selector switches.

This order follows on the completion of the Normandie outfit, and is one of many supplied to modern liners, including the Champlain the Orion, the Strathmore, the ships now being completed in France, together with a number of small orders.

Protection Asked For

Shanghai, July 28. Bus service on the newly constructed Wusih-Shanghai Highway will be formally inaugurated on August 15, it was decided at a meeting of the shareholders of the Wusih-Shanghai Long-Distance Omnibus Company yesterday. The Highway was built at the expense of the Company.

The meeting was presided over by Mr. Wang Hsiao-lai, General Manager, and attended by over 50 shareholders. Among those present were Mayor Wu Te-chuen, Messrs. Hsu Pei-huang and Pan Kung-chuan, respectively Commissioners of Public Utility and Education for Greater Shanghai; Chang-Kia-ngau, Vice-Governor of the Central Bank of China; Tu Yuen-sheng, Chairman of the Shanghai Civic Association; and Yu Ya-ching, General Manager of the Sanghai Steam Navigation Company.

After hearing a report from Mr. Wang Hsiao-lai on the construction of the highway and the purchase of omnibuses, the meeting decided to despatch a deputy to make a final inspection of the route, in conjunction with Mr. Mei Cheng-chang, of the Kiangsu Provincial Department of Reconstruction.

The capital of the Company will be reduced from $1 million to $600,000. Application for registration will be filed immediately with the Ministry of Industry.

FASTER AIRWAYS

There is nothing unexpected in the remarks of Sir Edward Campbell in London recently on the speeds at which Imperial Airways will soon be travelling to the ends of the Empire. India in three days, Singapore in five, Australia in seven, and New Zealand in eight, are all by modern standards, reasonable rates of air progress. The time-table takes account of some night flying; and until the aeroplane uses "the whole clock" with confidence and regularity it will be robbed of half its virtue.

CLYDE SHIPBUILDING

Unhappily the outlook for employment in Clyde shipyards is not very encouraging. The amount of work under construction is rapidly decreasing, and although one or two new contracts are expected these will not greatly improve the situation. Neglecting the shipyards that have been empty for years and the yacht-building establishments, there are 22 yards on the Clyde, and of these no fewer than six are left with empty stocks. Two yards have one ship each on the stocks, seven have two, and seven have three or more. Messrs Denny, Dumbarton, are the busiest yard, and although they have six ships laid down, or ready to lay down, their largest contracts are a 5000-ton liner and two destroyers.

CIVIL AVIATION IN EDINBURGH

The members of Edinburgh Chamber of Commerce have been untiring in their efforts to overcome what they regard as the inertia of the Edinburgh Town Council with regard to the provision of a civil aerodrome. In order further to press their case, a civil aviation section has been formed comprising the leading business men who are interested in civil aviation. The Town Council, they claim, is dilatory and they fear that the absence of a civil aerodrome may result in the exclusion of Edinburgh from new schemes for air transport services.

BOY ASTONISHES BISLEY

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 18.

I talked to-day to Ralph Barr, the 15-year-old Glasgow schoolboy whose shooting has astonished Bisley, writes a correspondent.

Shooting with a rifle he won less than a month ago at a Glasgow shooting range Barr has already carried off many prizes.

Yesterday in the Alexandra competition his aggregate was higher than that of several former King's Prize winners.

Barr, a pupil of Glasgow Academy, is the hero of his school friends. They guard him right and day from people who wish to congratulate him on his successes.

"We are afraid that if he gets congratulated too much he will get swollen-headed and his shooting will go off," I was told.

But I saw him to-day just after he had come from the ranges, having made another two 32's out of possible 35's.

"I cannot understand this shoot-

DARING HOLD-UP IN SHANGHAI

Shanghai, July 30.

Hiring a taxi from a Chinese garage, three gunmen drove to the Houston Restaurant, 20 Nanking Road, behind the Sassoon Building, shortly before 10 o'clock last night. Producing their guns, the trio entered the restaurant, intimidated the three assistants, and stole more than $300 in cash, which represented a part of yesterday's takings. The gunmen then forced the taxi chauffeur to get out of his car and the vehicle was then driven away at high speed by one of the gunmen. A report was immediately made to the Central Police Station by both the taxi chauffeur and the restaurant proprietor and officers were sent out to investigate, but up to a late hour last night, no arrest had been made.

According to the story of the chauffeur, the trio sent a telephone message to his garage last night, ordering a taxi to be sent to the Greater Shanghai Hotel, near the corner of Nanking and Chekiang Roads. When the taxi arrived, he could not find the men who had telephoned for the taxi in the hotel room from which the message had been sent, but he eventually found the trio at the front gate of the hotel. After taking them for a drive, he was told to go to the Houston Restaurant.

Before alighting, the chauffeur continued, the trio ordered him to park his car on Jinkee Road instead of Nanking Road, so he did not know what happened in the restaurant until he was forcibly ejected by the men at the point of pistols. The taxi was of the Kiangsu Garage behind the Sun Sun Co.

ing of mine," he said. "I have been shooting for years, but have never been in any big competitions, and certainly have never made scores like this."

"I can give no explanation. Maybe it is just luck. I am wondering how long the luck will last."

"SANATOGEN will soon put him right again"

Physicians know by experience, how quickly and surely Sanatogen will build up strength in debilitated patients.

Whatever the cause of the weakness, be it illness, overwork or worry, Sanatogen cannot fail to do good. The phosphorus it contains is pure strength to the weakened nerve-cells. The albumin is nature's own building material of bodily power. It is the intricate combination of these two elements that has won Sanatogen the written recommendations of over 25,000 physicians.

And the splendid part of it is that Sanatogen is not only a true tonic-food, but also very easily digestible, so that the weakest patient, and the weakest stomach, can digest it.

Sanatogen must do you good. It does not interfere with any medical treatment, and every glassful brings you nearer to perfect health again. Shorten that tedious period of convalescence. Be strong and healthy again. You can if you start your course of Sanatogen today.

POISON GAS

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 18.

In the House of Commons, in November, 1932, Mr. Baldwin said with reference to aerial warfare:—

"The only defence is in offence, which means that you have to kill women and children more quickly than the enemy if you want to save yourselves. Mr. Baldwin also said last May:—

"I have been studying questions of air raid precautions. I have been made almost physically sick to think that I and my friends and the statesmen in every country in Europe, 2,000 years after our Lord was crucified, should be spending our time thinking how we can get the mangled bodies of children to the hospitals and how we can keep the poison gas from getting down the throats of the people. Two exemplary utterances! The first tells the truth. The second deplores the truth that has been told.

We venture to claim that we have never told our readers anything else concerning this business of air raids. We have never told them that poison gas tastes good.

However, while nothing "effective" can be done against air raids, the Government is obliged to do what it can. All that it can do at present is included in these Home Office directions to local authorities published in our news columns yesterday. If we have time, perhaps our ingenious inventors will get busy and turn their minds from destruction to prevention, and improve on these feeble directions—these strengthened fire brigades, these handbooks for householders, these expert corps of gas detectors. Why not free umbrellas made of tin?

We may find something better. Until then we can only repeat what we have so often said. The only way to stop air raids is to stop war.

There is one other practical suggestion which will shock sentimentalists. Since millions will be poisoned anyhow in air raids, why not distribute a mercifully narcotic poison in small boxes or bottles to the whole population at the first signal of war?

This would be kinder in the end than respirators, protective clothing, hot baths or tin umbrellas.

SCOTS AIBS POPULAR

But that is not all

"A number of 'Mexican girls' the correspondent adds, 'have taken up Scotch dances, including the Highland fling, the intricate steps of which resemble those of the Mexican national dance, 'El Jarabe Tapatio.' Scotch songs and music have also been introduced and are popular."

CINEMA TRADE NOTICES

THE FLAME WITHIN

A picture that is at once an outstanding dramatic entertainment and an intense psychological study is "The Flame Within," co-starring Ann Harding and Herbert Marshall. The new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer special will be seen from to-morrow at the Queen's Theatre.

Ann Harding, in the richest dramatic role she has played since she abandoned the stage for the screen, gives a vital, convincing portrayal of a famous woman psychiatrist.

Mrs. O'Sullivan, who probably has climbed toward stardom faster during the past year than any other young actress, surpasses even her outstanding performance in such pictures as "David Copperfield" and "The Barretts of Wimpole Street."

Louis Hayward, young English star whose screen debut in this picture and his future film popularity seems assured.

Henry Stephenson, who has played approximately thirty pictures during a three-year period, again gives his usual flawless delineation of a boisterous, good-natured friend of Marshall. But it is not just in acting that "The Flame Within" surpasses the average picture; it is in the story value, directorial accomplishment and general all-round entertainment value.

"The Flame Within" is definitely something new in motion picture drama, something fascinating, gripping and very much worth while that should engross the most fastidious of cinema-goers.

"G MEN"

The leap from gangster to copper would not appear such a long jump for some players but the last person one would expect to succumb to the cause of law and order is Jimmy Cagney.

Nevertheless, the one and only Cagney, tough guy of the movies, has turned Federal sleuth in the first National production, "G Men" now showing at the Alhambra Theatre, in which, as a member of the United States Department of Justice, he cracks down and eliminates the very type of character he has so often portrayed.

Cagney is still the tough guy, tougher even than he has ever been before.

Gregory Rogers, author of "G Men" built his story around the headlines that have been chasing one another across the front pages of American newspapers for the last two or three years. He was inspired by the heroic deeds of G Men—the government men who have knocked the very foundations out from under gangdom and he gave the title "G Men" to his scenario.

Jimmy Cagney got the role of "Buck Davis," a tough guy from New York's East Side who throws overboard a meager but promising law practice to become a G Men and exterminate the gang responsible for bringing to an untimely conclusion the life of his college chum, Eddie Buchanan (Regis Toomey) who went straight from law school into the Secret Service.

"THE GAY BRIDE"

WITH

CAROLE LOMBARD
CHESTER MORRIS

THE DRUNKEN DRIVER

London, July 10.

In his address to the conference of the Magistrates' Association in Manchester yesterday, the Manchester Recorder discussed the problem of the drunken driver and the dilemma which often faces a magistrate who has to consider the appropriate penalty. The offence of "drunk in charge" is one with which I have no sympathy, "he said. Mr. Goldie. Nevertheless he was concerned to point out that certain penalties might press much more heavily on the professional driver than they would on a private motorist, few whom fine or suspension may mean little beyond a small pecuniary loss or deprivation from a personal pleasure. He considered the case of a taxi-driver, for whom his licence is his livelihood. "By the very fact of conviction the man's living is 'taken away.' The distinction—in fact—is a sound one. Yet it is difficult to see how there either can or ought to be any distinction in law between different classes of road-users. That a driver should not get drunk while driving is an implied condition of his employment. If he fails to observe it and has his licence suspended or withdrawn in consequence there may be hardship in his loss of a particular livelihood, but the community has a right to be protected. Motoring is a dangerous trade, and there is as little reason for sentimentality in the approach to its problems as in any other dangerous trade. A worker found smoking in an explosives factory could scarcely complain of dismissal. Nor can we see the courts or Trinity House considering sympathetically a plea that his livelihood was concerned from a ship's pilot or railway signalman who had hazarded the lives of others through drunkenness on duty. Penalties graduated to meet the needs of particular cases there may well be. But the withdrawal of licences is a necessary and potent weapon to drive from the road those who have shown their unfitness to be trusted on it.

The Saving Clause

"Meenister," said Donald sadly. "Ah, think ye've deceived me. Did you not say that if Ah got married Ah'd be at the end of my troubles?" "Aye," replied the minister. "I did; but I didn't say which end Donald."

Charles Laughton, the British film actor, who has made a great success as Nero and Henry VIII, will appear next time in a realisation of "Les Miserables" by Victor Hugo.

CANADA'S WHALING SEASON

Ottawa, Canada.

Although the whaling industry is chiefly confined to the Pacific Coast, these monsters of the deep are sometimes found on the Atlantic. An 82-foot whale, with its mouth measuring 30 feet in circumference was recently trapped in an ice jam on the shores of Nova Scotia, and cast up on the shore.

On the Pacific coast the whaling industry is of importance; and the past season was the best in some respects since 1918. Last year Canadian whalers captured 350 whales and a total of 813,700 fathoms of whale oil was produced. The oil is used for making soap and for other purposes. Whale meal and fertilizer were also produced from these marine monsters.

NON-STOP-REVUE COMING

The Tropical Express Company

Visiting the East for the first time, the Tropical Express Company, Professor William Doorlay's Non-Stop revue will arrive in Hong Kong on August 20th, and open at the Kings Theatre, for a short season Wednesday August 21st, at 8.30 p.m.

The Company is a large one and many nationalities are represented, indeed, so cosmopolitan is it in its constitution that it has been described as a travelling "League of Nations."

Professor Doorlay assembled the company several years ago, and recently, its numbers have increased to 45 each of whom is trained to submit to a training which is almost military discipline.

Ordinarily more than 100 items go to make a programme, which lasts something like three hours, each contribution succeeding its predecessor with lightning-like rapidity.

During recent years the company has travelled widely in Europe and South America. The present tour, which was extended to Cairo, would normally have come to an end early this year but Prof. Doorlay received an offer from the Show Trust of Bombay which induced him to explore the East and encouraged by a notable successful three weeks in Bombay, four weeks at Calcutta, two weeks Rangoon and two weeks in Singapore, he proposes to continue his venture, through Hong Kong.

The Company's programmes are equivalent of London's Non-Stop Revue—dancing, acrobatics, songs, sketches and various diversions. Booking plans will be open shortly at the Kings.

Anna Sten and Fredric March in one of the charming love scenes in "We Live Again," Samuel Goldwyn's filmization of Leo Tolstoy's famous novel, "Resurrection," released through United Artists and showing now at the King's Theatre

WE LIVE AGAIN

At The King's

One of the greatest pictures of all time helped by five great people in its making opened its first local screening at the King's Theatre yesterday. "We Live Again" that gorgeous and magnificent vehicle of Czarist Russia which is so cleverly acted by the players that one wonders whether it is true that such perfect and collaborating actors could all be crowded in one such picture.

Triumphantly Anna Sten's second picture answers the fears of the critics that she could not survive the handicaps of this rather heavy old-fashioned story of Czarist Russia, remade for the fourth time on the screen.

Without the benefit of gorgeous costumes, weighted down with social doctrines, it proves the sheer artistry of this star as she runs the gamut of innocent love hardened shamelessness, defiance, despair and finally—resurrection.

Fredric March also reaches the heights as the prince, who light-heartedly seduces the peasant girl, only to find that wealth, position, nothing matters except the love that he has betrayed.

The human, moving story of how, years later, he experiences a rude awakening when, as a member of a jury, he recognizes Katusha in the pitiful girl of the streets being tried for a murder of which she is innocent, and gives up everything to follow her to Siberia, has been transcribed to the screen with a sure sense of entertainment values by Preston Sturges, Maxwell Anderson and Leonard Frank, and Mamoulian's direction stands out as unquestionably the supreme achievement of a brilliant career.

There are several highlights in the picture. The Easter service in the provincial church with its gorgeous music. The meeting of the prince and his childhood sweetheart in the graveyard of the prison. Sten's beauty in the hideous prison garb. Fredric March's face as he prays to "live again."

The picture is magnificent in its dramatic acting and coupled with a strong cast it is far above the average picture. N.A.E.M.

They Get That Way

A poet says he writes because he simply cannot help it. Well, that is as good an excuse as any.

"GIRLS PLEASE"

There have always been actors whose ability to impersonate the opposite sex has brought them great renown. It is an art on its own, unlike anything else in the histrionic scale.

English theatre-goers remember with delight the brilliant work of such star actors as Malcolm Scott, Bert Errol and W. S. Penley.

Now there comes a screen performance that will surely become as famous as any, and in years to come will be recalled with joy. Sydney Howard, the celebrated Yorkshire comedian, stars in "Girls Please" as the deputy headmistress of a girls' finishing school, in charge of forty lovely "pupils."

Mr. Howard's performance is said to be the best that he has ever given. He is supported in "Girls Please" by an excellent cast which includes Jane Baxter, Meiril Forbes, Edward Underdown, Peter Gawthorne, Lena Halliday, Cecily Oates and H. Moore Marriott.

"Girls Please" which is due at the King's Theatre on Tuesday, was directed by Jack Raymond for British and Dominions.

YUKON LO LIVE AGAIN

Mayo, Yukon, Territory, Canada.

The Yukon, once scene of the world's most famous and most exciting gold rush, is in the news again—but this time it is silver. With the rising of silver prices, miners in large numbers are coming to this rich Yukon camp.

They are arriving by air, land and water and every available house, cabin and shack is taxed to its capacity. Even chicken coops have been converted into temporary dwellings.

From 1922 to the end of 1933 the Mayo district shipped ore and concentrates to the value of approximately $22,000,000. Since then, however, the mines have idled with the decline in prices. Now with rising silver prices, large silver operators are tuning up their equipment preparatory to resuming operations on a larger scale, while individual claim owners have already started to get ore out for summer shipment.

AROUND THE COURTS

OFFICE BOY'S LAPSE

Disappeared after he had stolen $200 from his employer Capt. G. F. Dent at Ice House Street on May 2, Li Ping Man, an office boy, was arrested only a few days ago and brought before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy yesterday, charged with the theft.

Giving the facts of the theft, Det. Sgt. Baldwin said that the complainant hung his coat up in the office. In it was the said sum. When the complainant took his coat a little later he found the sum missing, and so had defendant. On July 31, a detective received certain information, as a result of which he went to Wan-chai, and there found defendant, who admitted taking the money. He told the police that he had spent it all in Canton.

Sentence of six weeks' hard labour was imposed.

A SIMILAR CASE

Another man, Leung Man King, alias Leung King Khe, aged 37, was charged before Mr. Macfadyen with the theft of jewellery to the total value of $1,540 on October 31, 1932, while in the employ of Mr. W. G. Goggin, at No. 195 The Peak.

Prosecuting, Inspector M. Murphy stated that on the day in question, while the complainant and No. 1 boy were absent from the house, defendant stole the jewellery. He told the police that he had taken the jewellery to Canton where he had pawned it for $235. Defendant returned to the Colony last year, and at the time of his arrest was in the employ of the Queen's Theatre. The jewellery stolen consisted of rings and brooches.

Defendant pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to six months' hard labour.

TRAFFIC SUMMONS

Arising out of an incident at Repulse Bay Road, Robert Young was yesterday summoned at the instigation of Mr. J. A. Bendall of the Public Works Department before Mr. W. Schofield with driving private car No. 1878 without due care and caution in Repulse Road.

Giving the facts of the case Traffic Inspector Alexander said that on July 21 at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon the complainant was driving down Repulse Bay Road. There were two cars in front of him, and two more behind. While rounding a corner, another car came up the Repulse Bay Road, and defendant was alleged to have overtaken complainant's car, and cut in front of him. Mr. Bendall had to apply his brakes to avoid a collision, in which three cars might have been involved.

Inspector Alexander said he understood that the defendant was not there at the time, but was at a party, and the car was at Kennedy Road.

Defendant said he was at a tea party in Kowloon on the afternoon in question, and he was not the owner or driver of the car.

Mr. Schofield fixed the hearing of the case for the afternoon of August 8, and requested Inspector Alexander to make enquiries about the matter.

CONVICTED OF ASSAULT

Wong Chat, a married woman was charged with assaulting a Sanitary Department coolie at Bowington Road market on Thursday. Sanitary Inspector H. G. Stevens informed his Worship, Mr. W. Schofield that the women were worse than the men.

Inspector Logan said the complainant, who was on duty at the market, saw the defendant, hawking in the market, and warned her to leave. Later he saw her again, and kicked her basket. The defendant is then alleged to have either stabbed or thrown a knife at the coolie, causing an injury to his leg.

Sanitary Inspector Stevens said these unlicensed hawkers formed into large gangs, and if a Sanitary coolie in the market attempted to hit them, they would be set upon by a gang. The women were even worse than the men in this respect.

Mr. Schofield passed sentence of two months' hard labour on the defendant, who admitted the charge.

As soon as sentence was pronounced the defendant protested, saying the complainant had assaulted her first. She had to be led out of the Court room forcibly.

SUMMARY CLAIM

Before the Police Judge, Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell at the Summary Court yesterday, Mr. M. A. da Silva appeared on behalf of Mr. S. Cogul, in a claim for the sum of $288.70 against Mr. S. A. Lowe, trading as the Trocadero Hotel.

The claim arose out of the loss of various clothing and property while the plaintiff was staying at the Hotel on May 6.

Mr. Silva said that his client was suing for the return of the clothing and articles of the cost of the replacement and called Sgt. Davies to give evidence. The witness said that he was called to the scene on May 6 to Room 11 and was told of the loss which included $51. At the same time it was reported to him that one of the boys had disappeared.

He was given a list of the stolen articles. Asked why he gave his opinion as regards the value of the grey overcoat as $25 witness said that was the pawn value of it.

A week ago the plaintiff gave a supplementary list to Sub-Inspector Whant.

After the theft Mr. Lowe gave the police a list of the stolen articles but it was stated by Mr. Silva that after the police had made enquiries other articles were found to be missing. All the articles some of which were used and others unused.

Mr. Justice Lindsell said that he could not allow full value of the lost articles but Mr. Silva said that the articles cost his client that much and if he could get the amount then he should be awarded the cost of the replacement. At this stage the hearing was adjourned.

Charged before Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy yesterday, with the theft of three knives, three forks, a spoon and 35 yards of electric wire from St. John's Hall, Bonham Rd., on Thursday, Chan Cheung, unemployed, was sentenced to two months' hard labour. Detective Sergeant Kin-near said defendant was arrested by a district watchman near the Ko Shing theatre. He was carrying a parcel, which contained the stolen articles and admitted he had stolen them from St. John's Hall.

Charged before Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy yesterday, a 30-year-old man named Yip Fook pleaded guilty to the theft of two hammers, two spanners, a saw, a file and a suit of dungarees from the steamer Kong Ning at the Ho On Wharf on Thursday. The complainants were the West River Transporting Company. Detective Sergeant Gowans stated that defendant was stopped by a Chinese detective with the property in his possession. He told the detective that he worked at the Naval Dockyard, but later admitted stealing the property from the engine-room of the steamer Kong Ning. An engineer of the ship had identified the property, but the ship was at present away from Hong Kong. Defendant had pawned the dungarees for 20 cents. Sentence of six weeks' hard labour was imposed.

Leung Hoi, shopkeeper, appeared before Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy yesterday, charged with assaulting a youth named Leung Chan Fong at D'Aguilar Street on Thursday night. Complainant, formerly worked for defendant at his shop in West Point, but had left because defendant refused to pay him wages. A sum of $8 was still owing to complainant. On Thursday night, defendant visited complainant and asked him to come into the street. When complainant came out, defendant assaulted him with a bamboo pole, making a bruise on his side. A fine of $20, or three weeks' imprisonment, was imposed, and defendant was further ordered to pay complainant $8 or serve another week. Sub-Inspector Walsh prosecuted.

Three motor car drivers were summoned before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday for causing obstructions. A. H. Basto, driver of private car No. 2890, was cautioned for causing an obstruction at the junction of Nanking Street and Nathan Road at 9.55 p.m. on July 17. W. G. Williams, driver of private car No. 2448, and K. T. C. Marshall, driver of car No. 1998, were fined $5 each when they pleaded guilty to similar summonses. Traffic Sergeant J. Jamieson prosecuted in each case.

POSSESSION OF DRUGS

Charged with the possession of 180 tals of raw opium in Room No. 318 Luk Kwok Hotel, four Chinese males, Wong Sing, Hui Tat Sang, Chan Fuk and Tang Yuen were brought before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday.

Revenue Officer A. W. Grimmitt asked for a remand which was granted saying that Mr. M. K. Lo was appearing for the first defendant. Balls of $5,000 each was granted.

Four other defendants, three women and a man, were charged with possession of heroin pills at No. 74 Des Voeux Road, Central, third floor. The defendants were Chan Ho, married woman, Lam Sui Chan, married woman, Hon Lee, widow, and Lam Yiu, unemployed.

Revenue Officer Grimmitt asked for a remand, saying there might be further charges preferred against defendants.

The defendants were accordingly remanded for one week, bail being allowed in $2,500 each.

A man with seven previous convictions, of which five were for theft and unlawful possession, appeared before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy, charged with stealing two electric fans. The defendant, Leung Kam, unemployed, was arrested on Thursday afternoon by the Tak-yun, electrician, No. 325 Hennessy Road, the owner of the fans. In Tin Lok Lane after a long chase through Hennessy Road. When charged, defendant admitted the theft, and the previous convictions, and was sentenced to six months' hard labour.

An expulsion order was made against an unemployed Indian, Sholomd Awad, aged 35, when he was charged before Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy yesterday with entering the Colony without a valid passport. Detective Sergeant Russell stated that defendant arrived in the Colony on Thursday by the Conte Verde. Defendant was not on the ship's list, having paid his passage after the vessel had sailed from India. He produced a certificate which had been cancelled in 1931. The police were asking for an expulsion order against defendant as the owners of the Conte Verde had agreed to take him back to Singapore at their expense when the vessel returned from Shanghai.

RUMANIAN MINISTER RESIGNS

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Bucharest, Aug. 1.

The Minister for Industry and Commerce M. Manolescu Strunga handed in his resignation on Thursday. The reason given for this step was the disapproval of the Government's new foreign trade policy, based on a forty per cent. export premium.

The resignation occurs at a very difficult moment for the Tarzescu Cabinet since to-day (Thursday) an instalment of half a milliard lei is due to be remitted to Paris for redeeming the coupons of bondholders.

In consequence of the shortage of foreign currencies this sum cannot be transferred and Under Secretary of State, M. Patalescu is now engaged in negotiations in Paris with the object of coming to some other arrangement with the bondholders.

Reports received here from Paris indicate that the negotiations are proving extremely difficult and it is feared in political circles here that a breakdown will have serious consequences for the Government.

—Transoceanic News Min.

Brought before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, with the possession of 1.8 tals of raw opium in his possession in Prince Edward Road, Au Sang, a 41 year old unemployed was fined $54 or in default six weeks' hard labour.

A 13-year-old school boy was also charged but was dismissed.

It was alleged that about 10 p.m. on July 21 the man and boy were seen walking together by an Indian constable. When defendant saw the constable he immediately shouted out "Run!" to the boy, who was carrying three jackets over his arm. An unknown European was passing at the time and when he heard defendant shout, he grabbed the boy and the pair were taken into custody. At the police station a packet of opium was found in a pocket of one of the jackets.

Inspector Chester-Woods appeared for the prosecution.

VERDICT OF "SUICIDE" RETURNED

State Of Mind Unknown

WITNESS REBUKED

A verdict that "death was due to suicide by taking lysol" was returned by the jury empanelled at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday afternoon at the continued hearing of an inquiry held to ascertain the circumstances attending the death of the late Sanitary Inspector George Edward Roylance, who died at his residence at No. 25 Kimberley Road on July 7.

The jury Messrs. W. Sharp (foreman) L. G. V. Ribeiro and L. J. Castillo added a rider to their verdict that they were "not in a position to express an opinion of the state of deceased's mind" from the evidence that had been given in Court.

The Coroner, Mr. E. L. Wynne-Jones concurred with the verdict, adding that he felt sure the jury would join with him in an expression of sympathy to the widow, Mrs. Roylance and her family.

WIDOW'S EVIDENCE

Giving evidence Mrs. Emily Irene Roylance, said that she was the wife of the deceased with whom she had been married for 21 years, since September 1914. They had three children, the eldest being a boy of 20 years of age, the second a girl, 18 years of age, and the third a boy 16 years of age. The eldest was the only one in employment.

On the day of the death of her husband, she went to church between 6.15 and 6.30 a.m. Arriving late at Church she had to wait for the next service and returned home at about 8.40 a.m.

Her husband was at home, and he informed her that he had partaken of his breakfast. At about 9 o'clock he left the house for work while she had her breakfast and then laid down.

An hour and a half later she took her bath and a little while after she heard the deceased called out to her. He said "see I have brought you some firewood and washing soap." She then went out and saw him on the veranda drinking some beer. He had another drink though she tried to stop him. She helped him to lie down, but he had only laid down for a few minutes when he said that he wished to go out again to see Inspector Brewer.

Witness advised him not to go, and after a little struggle put him back to bed. He then asked for some rum, but she remonstrated with him and asked him not to have any more.

Deceased then said that if he could not have any more, he would take some thing else, and went to the bathroom. There he picked up a bottle of lysol from the shelf, but witness took it away from him, returning it to where it had been removed.

NOT UNUSUAL FEATURE

Witness then sobbingly related that she went down to the veranda for a rest as she was feeling very upset. She laid down for about seven or eight minutes when she heard her husband moving about the room and coughing though she paid no particular attention to the latter fact as this was not unusual.

She then rose and saw him lying on the sitting room floor. She rushed in and called to him, but when she neared the body, she saw that the face was blue. There was a bottle of lysol next to him on the right hand side, which was half-empty, but she could not remember whether the cork was on the bottle.

She picked up the bottle because she thought that perhaps he was not dead and would drink again. She called the boy and told him to rush upstairs and telephone for help, while she put the lysol on the bath room shelf. "Then I went back and found him dead," "I then went up to call somebody but I could not do it, so I sat on the doorstep and cried."

Only the amah, boy and herself were in the house at the time. A neighbour, Mr. Pinna arrived and found her on the doorstep and later her son the police, and ambulance and various other people came.

THE QUARREL

In answer to the Coroner witness said that they did not quarrel to any great extent that morning, but on the day previous deceased came home at 6 o'clock and asked for his tiffin, but he was too intoxicated to eat very much.

He was put to bed but at 8 o'clock joined the family at dinner and attempted to eat something. He then played the gramophone and eventually went to bed. He did not sleep but continued to make a noise, being finally pacified by her eldest son.

The quarrel they had had on this occasion was not any more severe than that which they had experienced in the past, and this sort of thing had occurred almost every week end. However, since the beginning of June until his death, deceased had improved.

Witness did not know what her late husband's salary was but she was accustomed to receiving $300 to $400 according to the exchange. She had had some money when she married.

Coroner: "Did you have any trouble about money?"

Witness: "He used to borrow some money, but I do not know what for."

Sometimes, witness continued deceased would say that he required some money to pay his debts.

Coroner: "Mrs. Roylance, he left you once or twice. Can you tell us when?"

Witness replied that he left her in July last year, and March this year. The first time he was away for a week, while during the latter period he was away for a fortnight.

Coroner: "Can you tell the reason for leaving you?"

Witness: "All for his drink."

Deceased was friendly when sober, everything being forgiven and forgotten. The last time they had been to a cinema together, said witness was in the middle of June, and the last picnic they had had together was at Castle Peak during the last public holidays.

SEPARATION TALK

A week before the tragic day, they quarrelled again, when deceased suggested that they should obtain a divorce, or obtain a separation as his behaviour "was praying on her nerves." So had was this quarrel that she slept in the sitting room on a camp bed though it was unusual during the hot months for her to sleep in the veranda. However they made up again when he came up to her.

They were married in 1914 said witness, and they all went together on his first leave (1920). Seven years later he again went home, but this time without the family. In 1932 he again went on leave, leaving his family in Hong Kong as on the last occasion. When he was away he arranged that a certain sum be left behind to pay for the expenses.

Witness said that she knew nothing of what he did while in England, but when he returned he told her that he was married to another woman.

He asked her to give him some money which presumably was for this other woman. After some time, witness said that she could not afford any further sums, so he asked her to write to this woman explaining the position. After 1933 there was no further trouble from this source.

Coroner: "Did he ever threaten to take his life before?"

Witness: "Yes very often, but only when he was drunk."

THREAT OF SUICIDE

He was in the habit, said the witness to place petrol, kerosene, bay rum or lysol in front of him and threatened that he would drink one of the liquids.

The next witness called was George Edward Roylance, Jr., who said that he was the eldest son of the deceased. He saw his father on the morning in question just as he was preparing to go to work shortly before 9 o'clock. His father also was going to work and asked him (witness) if he wished to go to work by car. Witness replied "No, I will go by bus." These were the last words he spoke to his father. The latter said witness was still suffering from the effects of the previous night but was not in a quarrelsome mood.

Witness came back from work at 1.15 p.m. and arrived home just before the Police. The ambulance people and neighbours were already on the premises.

He had often heard his father say that he would take his own life, but nothing was mentioned on the night before the fatal day.

NO DISORDER

Mr. S. F. Pinna, who resides on the top floor of No. 25 Kimberley Road, said that he came back from the club at about 1 p.m. and met Mrs. Roylance sitting on the staircase, weeping. "You go and see my husband" she cried "He is dead." He has taken some lysol. Witness then rushed up and saw her husband lying apparently dead. He then went upstairs and discovered that his family knew nothing of the tragedy, as apparently they had all called on neighbours.

In answer to the Coroner, witness said that he did not go near the body, but he was positive that he saw no signs of disorder in the room.

Wong Mum So, an assistant of David's Cafe, situated in Hankow Road, said that he knew the deceased, who was a regular customer. On the morning of the day in question, deceased came in at about 9.30 a.m. and ordered two bottles of Kirin beer and four glasses of Younger's Ale, all of which he signed for. He also had an egg sandwich, leaving the premises sometime after 10 a.m. Witness saw the deceased again about noon, when the latter ordered a bottle of Kirin beer. On the day previous, deceased also went to the cafe for some drinks.

Mr. H. E. Lanepart, proprietor of a lodging house at 4c-6c Hankow Road, after taking the oath before giving his evidence, was asked by the Coroner what had he placed before him on the shelf of the witness box, and when told that it was notes that he (witness) had prepared and might easily be referred to in evidence, was told by the Coroner that they must be put away.

STAYED AT BOARDING-HOUSE

Witness said that he saw the deceased on the forenoon and afternoon of July 6. During the former period he saw the deceased lying on a couch in room No. 11, the boarder of which was his house keeper. He witness concluded that the deceased was drunk at the time, as he "was in a helpless state." Later in the afternoon, witness saw deceased in room No. 4, which was occupied by a family and "I greeted him."

Witness said that the deceased had stayed at his house on two occasions. The first time was from July 20 and July 26 last year, and the more recent occasion was on March 10 for 16 days. Witness was informed by the deceased (on the first occasion) that he had taken these rooms because he had quarrelled with his wife. On the second occasion deceased made witness to understand that he was going to stay for good, but actually only stayed for sixteen days. Deceased had said that he was compelled to return to his family by the action of his superior officers, who had informed the deceased that he must either go back or leave the service.

WITNESS REBUKED

Witness then said that the deceased had informed him that he was putting in an application for pension, and showed him (witness) a paper with a badge on it.

Questioned by the Coroner, witness said that all he saw was a foolscap paper and that "he believed" deceased to have made him understand that he had put in an application for pension, whereupon the Coroner said "how dare you say that you knew anything about it."

Later again the Coroner did to remind witness that the Court did not wish to have witness's opinion but the facts and when witness had completed his evidence, the Coroner said "Mr. Lanepart; please understand one thing when you come to a court, try to give evidence and not advertise yourself!"

The last witness called was Chief Sanitary Inspector L. Brewer of Kowloon, who said that he had known the deceased for 20 years.

Deceased was never warned officially about his private affairs, in fact when his application for pension was received at the Head Office, deceased was requested to put aside his application for a further period.

However, a day before he put in his application (which was about a fortnight before deceased took his own life) deceased went up to witness and said that he would like to retire on pension because of family trouble he was experiencing. Witness replied that he had no reason to do so, as he (deceased) had had trouble before and everything was always made up.

Deceased then said "I cannot stand it any longer. I must get out of it, if I do not, I shall do her in as well as myself."

Deceased, said witness was very

BIG OPIUM HAUL

Lack Of Evidence

The case in which Au Lam, 66 years of age, partner of the Kwong Lee vegetable stall at Central Market and his employee, Tam Kam, No. 1 sales man in the shop, who were charged with having in their possession 1,360 taels of raw opium on July 26 last and 100 imported illicit opium was again heard by Mr. W. Schofield at Central Magistracy yesterday, when at the conclusion of the hearing, both defendants were discharged on account of lack of evidence.

Mr. Leo D'Almada, Sr. appeared for the first defendant, while the second was represented by Mr. F. H. Loseby, Revenue Officer A. W. Grimmett prosecuted.

At the outset of yesterday's proceedings, Mr. D'Almada, called Lam Wah Nap, the secretary and manager of the Chinese Vegetable Guild. The latter stated that the Kwong Lee stall at Central Market was a member of the Guild.

METHODS USED

Witness then went on to describe the way in which the stalls, in general, dealt in their business.

He said that the stalls had no means of finding out what goods they were going to receive, until the arrival of the cargo. Upon arrival of the ships, coolies would go on board, where they would find envelopes, which would state the nature and quantity of the goods. Then the coolies would take delivery of goods to the places as addressed on the envelopes.

Witness said that he had occupied the present position in the Guild for over ten years. He was well acquainted with the defendants' stall, and during his connection with the vegetable guild he had received no complaints whatever, concerning the Kwong Lee stall.

Tam Kam, the second defendant, giving evidence in the witness box said that he slept in the market but his family lives at Shamshipo. On July 26 last he was awakened in the morning by the two coolies who carried the two baskets to his stall. It was about 3.30 a.m. then. The market was not opened yet—not till 4.00 a.m. When awakened, witness saw the two baskets of which one contained the opium, but he had never seen them before that time. The two coolies told him about the Revenue Officer who accompanied them. When one of them was handing him over the consignee's letter, a Revenue Officer snatched it away from him. The Revenue Officer asked him where his master was to which witness replied that he was in the warehouse. Witness did not personally open the baskets or touch them. Witness did not take the letter, so he had never read it.

NO EVIDENCE

Questioned by Mr. D'Almada, witness stated that first defendant had nothing to do with the selling and buying of goods undertaken by the Kwong Lee stall. He only looked after the cash.

Before discharging the defendants, His Worship remarked that in the present case, he considered that the opium was never in the possession of the defendants. Further there was no evidence of importing and that the manner in which the goods were received showed that there was no evidence of arrangements being made before hand or any intention to receive. His Worship added that there was ample opportunity for outsiders to tamper with the contents of the baskets.

ITALIAN PLANE DELAYED

Due to the unfavourable weather conditions, the giant 32-passenger plane, "Savola Marchetti," under the command of Col. Scaroni, formerly A.D.C. to King Victor Emmanuel of Italy is unable to take off for the North to join the Italian Aviation Mission at Nanchang. She will now in all probability leave on Sunday morning.

Upon receipt of favourable weather reports from Shanghai this morning, Col. Scaroni took the machine from the hangar to test the surface of the aerodrome but had to abandon the idea of leaving to-day owing to the heavy condition of the ground. He ran the plane about fifty yards on to the landing field and had to be hauled back on to the concrete runway by the tractor.

discreased at the time, but perfectly sober.

After His Worship had addressed the jury, they retired for 15 minutes and returned a verdict as stated above.

WEDDING BELLS

Goodman-Carter

A pretty wedding took place at the St. Andrew's Church, Kowloon yesterday morning, when Miss Esie Goodman and the Rev. Ronald William Carter, both members of the Church Missionary Society in Kweilin, Kwangai were married by Rev. J. R. Biggs.

The bride wore a gown of white satin, while her dress had a neckline with long sleeves and short cuffs. The veil, of fine white tulle, was short at the front and fell to the ground at the back. She carried white ginger lilies entwined with lilies of the valley.

Miss Margaret Nash, as bridesmaid, wore pale pink georgette with fine pink net hat to match and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Deaconess Edith Couche, of Yungchow, Hunan, acted for the bride's mother. She wore a saxe blue georgette dress with hat to match.

The bride was given away by Dr. H. D. Matthews, whilst the duties of best man were undertaken by Mr. E. F. Selk, Assistant Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. Appropriate music was rendered on the organ by Mr. G. W. Evans.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. D. Matthews, 89, Waterloo Road, Kowloon. On leaving for the honeymoon, Mrs. Carter wore a pale blue crepe-de-chine dress with coat and hat to match.

The bride, who is the youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Goodman, of Birmingham, England, was a sister at the Dudley Road Hospital, Birmingham, before proceeding to the mission field to join the staff of the Church Missionary Society's Hospital at Kweilin.

The bridegroom, younger son of Councillor and Mrs. George Carter, of Middlesbrough, England, was an electrical engineer before his ordination to the ministry of the church of England. He is now working with the Church Missionary Society in Kweilin.

DEMANDING MONEY WITH MENACE

Two men, Wong Yan and Wan Kam, were brought before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy yesterday to answer the charges of demanding $1260 with menace and violence from Ng Lam, a boatman on the evening of July 23 last at Murray Pier.

Det. Serg. Fowle prosecuted while the defence was in the hands of Mr. C. E. Lowe.

Ng Lam, the complainant giving evidence said that on the night of July 23 the two defendants asked for the sum of $1260, being fees for entering a Society by the name of Tung On Wah. Having no money he refused to give it to them and they immediately started to assault him, striking him with cargo hooks and closed fists which caused a wound on his back under the left shoulder.

He then ran away and later returned to Wanchai where his boat had been taken by his folks.

On the evening of July 28 he saw defendants again but he ran away. The defendants were later arrested. Further evidence was taken, after which His Worship adjourned the hearing until 2.30 p.m. on August 6.

THEFT OF WIRE

Before Mr. E. L. Wynne-Jones at Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, Li Tin-yin, alias Li Hin, 28, unemployed man, was charged on nine counts of stealing a total of 51½ lbs. of bronze telephone wire from various addresses, between July 17 and 31, the property of the Hong Kong Telephone Company. He pleaded guilty of having stolen 24½ lbs. and was sentenced to six months' hard labour.

Detective Sub-Inspector C. Poyntz, stated that defendant had worked there for 15 months and then resigned on his own accord. He went to the country and returned to Hong Kong but did not return to the Company. If he had, he would have been given casual employment. His deceased father had worked for the Company for about 20 years.

It was stated that the wire was worth $1 per lb. and defendant sold it for ten cents for catty.

NAVAL OCCASIONS

The Naval Agreement concluded between England and Germany appears to be a satisfactory document in several instances from a purely naval standpoint. There are several points in which this country still retains. For instance complete freedom of action as to the total size of her fleet, that the ratio is fixed in relation to each category of ships as well as to "global" tonnage; that Germany readily accepts a ratio of no more than 35 per cent.; and that the terms can only be changed in the future by mutual consent.

We are debarred from building capital ships until January 1937 whereas Germany can do so now. If Germany is to build rapidly the 18 months advance to allowed her would give her in the next decade a chance to exceed our own in this vital category. The agreement re-establishes the precedent of calculating foreign naval strengths in relation to the total tonnage of the British Empire, thereby ignoring the exceptional responsibilities which the British Navy is called upon to discharge. Finally, in the matter of submarines, the normal excess allowance permitted to Germany, combines with the contingent right to parity, is unwelcome in the light of our experiences in the last war; and it is also to be regretted that there is no stipulation limiting the number as well as the tonnage of German submarines. All these considerations render it imperative that we should without delay invoke the "Escalator" clause and save the mostly under-age Hawkins class from premature destruction.

A sense of misgiving can only be aroused on the diplomatic side under the circumstances in which this agreement had been concluded.

The unilateral breaches by Germany of her treaty obligations in respect of her land and air forces formed the subject of a strong protest by the British Government to Berlin on March 18. Yet little after three months we are openly aiding and abetting her in a flagrant breach of the naval disarmament clauses.

Worse is that this step was taken by us without first consulting our Treaty partners, we simply "informed" them but did not seek their consent or advice. This agreement marks a violent departure from the principle of an "all-in" settlement of armament and security questions which was put down in the Anglo-French declaration of February 3. Subsequently experience may have taught us the superior wisdom of piecemeal settlements. But while piecemeal settlements of particular issues may be all very well, piecemeal settlements by particular countries (especially where breaches of treaties are concerned) are in danger of exposing foreign relations to chaos. Should the French view the present agreement with some frugality it is indeed hardly surprising.

TSINAN. CONTRIBUTORS TO FLOOD RELIEF.

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Tsinan, July 26. All public functionaries in Tsinan have been requested to contribute 20 per cent of their salary each month toward a relief fund while various business firms and public organs are urged to contribute liberally.

The enthusiasm with which the local populace responded to the call for financial assistance for immediate relief of the flood refugees in Shantung is shown by the fact that a sum of over $300,000 has been collected by the authorities as contributions from various quarters.

In the meantime danger of a further rise of the Yellow River water continues unabated. According to Mr. Li Wen-Tsai, member of the Shantung Provincial Government, who has just completed an investigation trip in the affected areas, the scene of misery and dire suffering may be witnessed at a number of stations along the Tientsin-Pukow railway where thousands of flood refugees sought shelter and where provisions are being made to accommodate as many of the victims as possible. It is learned that in Tsinan alone a total of 1185 are being taken care of by the authorities.

For the past two days over 1,000 flood victims have arrived in Tsinan from Kuenchow seeking for relief. They are housed in temporary makeshifts built by the authorities.

Tangshan, July 24. More than 180 so-called "foreign firms" operated by Japanese and Korean runins and, openly selling opium and other narcotic drugs, have been established in Tangshan following the disturbance here a year ago.

That the drug evil is deep-rooted in the town, known for its railway workers, is evidenced by the fact that $3,000 worth of drugs are sold daily by these shops.

According to an estimate made by the local anti-drug society, about 80 per cent of the population are drug addicts.

THE CANTON-HANKOW RAILWAY

Great Progress Made

DAWN OF A NEW ERA

Nanking, July 29.

A small pamphlet reviewing the progress of construction work on the Canton-Hankow line, written by Mr. H. H. Ling, Director and Engineer-in-Chief of the Chuchow-Shaochow Section of the line, gives the reader a good idea of the difficulties which have been encountered and surmounted in the course of building operations.

The linking up of Hankow with Canton has long been considered an urgent need, politically as well as economically, so that the central part of China will be in direct touch with Canton, the great metropolis of the South. The first move for the construction of this railway of 1,096 kilometres connecting two of the most important cities of China, with a population of nearly one million each, and passing through rich provinces with an aggregate population of over ninety millions, can be traced as far back as 1896.

AGREEMENT MADE ON LOAN

Two years later, an agreement was made between the Chinese Minister in Washington, on behalf of the Director-General of the Imperial Chinese Railway, and the Chinese Development Company, an American syndicate, to construct this line by providing China with a loan of $4,000,000. Work on the Canton-Samsui branch was soon started, with the result that in 1904, this short line of forty-nine kilometres was opened to traffic. The American Company could then no longer proceed any further on account of objections raised by other interested parties.

In 1905, local promoters were interested and funds were solicited to redeem the concession originally granted to the American firm. The interests of the section in question of the Canton-Hankow Railway were turned into the hands of the then Yueh Han (Canton-Hankow) Railway Company. Through this Company the construction of this section was resumed and subsequently the section from Canton to Shaochow, a distance of 223 kilometres, was completed in 1915. The Railway Company was likewise in difficulties and it was impossible for the construction to proceed much further.

DEVELOPMENT SINCE 1923

During the interval between 1915 and 1923 several attempts had been made by the authorities as well as private interests, to resume building as originally planned. But they all met with failure.

Early in 1929, the Ministry of Railways, then a newly established Department of the National Government, decided that above everything else the construction of the Canton-Hankow Railway should be resumed without further delay. The section from Shaochow to Lochang, a length of fifty kilometres, was to be taken up first.

The Ministry succeeded in securing from the Belgian Boxer Indemnity Fund certain appropriations for purchasing rails, bridges, and rolling stock, and the work of this section was formally resumed in the latter part of 1929.

Construction had a good start with appropriations from the Southern Section to the extent of $100,000 per month out of its receipts for labour and local materials charges. Unfortunately, about one year later, funds were becoming gradually scarce, and work could go on only slowly, until the summer of 1932, when the work was practically suspended again.

ANOTHER LOAN

In the meantime, the negotiations between the Ministry of Railways and the Sino-British Boxer Fund Board for a loan sufficient to complete the Canton-Hankow Line, made much progress, and pending final settlement of the agreement, an advance of $100,000 was made in October, 1932, and the work of this Shaochow-Lochang Section was resumed and proceeded to completion in September, 1933. The opening of this section has given a great impetus to the coal and salt traffic on the south section of the Railway.

The Ministry of Railways and the Board of Trustees Administering the British Boxer Fund finally concluded in July 1933, a loan agreement under which the Ministry of Railways will be granted for the completion of the Canton-Hankow Railway the sum of $1,660,000 for purchasing materials abroad and about $30,000,000 Chinese currency for labour and purchase of local materials.

The date set for the completion of the entire line is about the end of 1936 and there is every reason to believe that this date can be adhered to. With its completion, a new day will dawn for transportation in China with an equally vital influence upon the economic, social and political conditions of the country.

DRAFT RESOLUTION AT GENEVA

Virtual Acceptance By Signor Mussolini

Geneva, August 2.

Signor Mussolini's reply to the new draft resolution amounts virtually to acceptance, subject to slight modifications which are not expected to present any difficulty. It is believed that there will be complete agreement over the conciliation procedure.

The points on which Signor Mussolini asks for modification relate to the subsequent steps. Baron Aloisi and M. Laval discussed an answer with the experts, after which the full text will be submitted to Mr. Anthony Eden and then to Teclé Hawariat, the Abyssinian Minister.

It is expected that the way will now be clear for adoption of the draft resolution by the Council.

Geneva, Aug. 2.

The conference between British, French and Italian delegates which began yesterday evening and lasted till 8.30 p.m. resulted in several amendments of the Anglo-French compromise formula for the Italo-Abyssinian conflict.

The difficulties hitherto existing as regards the wording of the obligation not to resort to arms is now said to have been overcome although it is admitted that the question of the discussion of the entire complex of the Italo-Abyssinian relations by the League of Nations as well as the proposed time limit for the Three-Power negotiations are still under dispute.

The evening of the second day of the Geneva negotiations, however is declared to have strengthened the impression that Italy will finally accept a compromise. Although concessions so far have been made by Britain and France, Italy is still unwilling to admit that the entire complex of the Italo-Abyssinian relations should eventually be discussed by the League of Nations in September.

ABYSSINIAN WATCHING

Addis Ababa, Aug. 2.

The progress of the Geneva negotiations is watched with great outward calm by official quarters here although the plans for the creation of a League of Nations Mandate over Abyssinia which was regarded here as a move directed against Italy, was declared to be "extremely interesting."

The Abyssinian Government, however, are convinced that Italy will never agree to such a proposal owing to its aspirations towards "Italian monopoly" in East Africa.

Preparations for the defence of the country against Italian invasion are therefore continued. Troop detachments of several thousand men marched through the capital on Thursday. They are, however, camped outside the city, being expressly forbidden to enter Addis Ababa in order to prevent press representatives and diplomats there to take undue interest in the troop movements.

PROPAGANDA CAMPAIGN

The propaganda campaign preparing the country for defence in case of war is being continued by the Government with all means at its disposal, two mass meetings being held on Thursday. The first of these assembled were the members of the "Patriotic Youth League" whose task it is to inform the rural population of the principles of colonial war and second the "Women of Abyssinia" some of whom were seen bearing arms.

In several addresses delivered at the latter meeting the female population of the country was exhorted to "fight and die with the men of Abyssinia." It was remarked, however, that the general trend in none of the speeches was hostile to foreigners.

A collection made during these demonstrations produced 33,000 Maria Theresa dollars.

The Government meanwhile is proposing the defence of the capital against nocturnal air raids. The city is being sub-divided into two parts for the protection of foreigners who are to be utilised for strengthening and instruction of the capital's police force.

FRIEND OR ENEMY?

Milsh August 2.

What is considered to be a reply to Sir Samuel Hoare's statement in the House of Commons is contained in an article in "Popolo d'Italia," inspired if not written by Signor Mussolini. It states that the Abyssinian question is acting like a touchstone and testing the friendship or enmity of other nations.

Other Italian newspapers state that it is recognised that Sir Samuel Hoare's speech was much firmer against Italy than previous declarations.

ITALY'S INSISTENCE

Geneva, Aug. 2.

Britain, says one well-informed source, cannot accept Signor Mussolini's counter-proposals for a settlement of the Italo-Abyssinian affair and at the same time stand by the amendment introduced by Mr. Eden in the French draft resolution last night.

M. Laval, Mr. Eden and Baron Aloisi consequently met at 7 o'clock this evening in the hope of reaching a solution to their difficulties. The chief point of difference at the moment is that Italy is insisting that the Council can in no way be associated with the negotiations of the three signatories of the 1906 Treaty. Britain, France and Italy, and to them should be left any discussion of the African situation as it is affected by that treaty.

PRIVATE TALKS

London, August 1.

Private conversations between the leading delegates attending the League Council at Geneva which began immediately after the adjournment of the Council last evening with a view to the drafting of a resolution as to the procedure to be followed to facilitate a peaceful settlement of the Italo-Abyssinian dispute have proceeded all day and the meeting of Council fixed for this evening had been postponed so that these negotiations in which Mr. Eden, Monsieur Laval and President of Council Litvinoff are actively engaged may continue.

AMERICAN SUPPORT

Washington, Aug. 1.

A weighty pronouncement on the Abyssinian dispute is believed to have been designed to put the moral support of the United States behind the League of Nations. It was made public by President Roosevelt to-night.

"At the moment the Council of the League of Nations is assembled to consider ways and means of composing, by pacific means, the differences between Italy and Ethiopia, I wish," said the President, "to voice the hope of the people and Government of the United States that an amicable solution will be found and peace maintained."

COMPROMISE FORMULA

Geneva, August 1.

The fresh diplomatic activity which followed the receipt of the news concerning the new Franco-British proposals resulted in the French delegation working out and submitting to Mr. Eden a compromise formula which considerably waters down the original demands. Article five of this Treaty provides that neither country shall resort to arms as long as any dispute on the subject of arbitration proceedings is initiated in accordance with the terms of the agreement, or as long as it is a subject of diplomatic negotiations.

The most difficult problem however, still appears to be the over-coming of Italy's refusal to agree to Abyssinia participating in direct diplomatic negotiations between the Three Great Powers on the basis of the treaty of 1906.

PROTEST FROM JAPAN

Outer Mongolia Incident

Changchun, Aug. 2.

The reply of the Government of Outer Mongolia to the second protest from the Kwantung Army, made in connection with the arrest and imprisonment of a Japanese Army surveyor on June 25, was received to-day.

The contents of the message will not be divulged at present, the High Command asserts.

It is authoritatively learned, however, that the reply is considered highly unsatisfactory, both by the Japanese command and the Manchukuo Foreign Office.

This is the second Japanese protest within the past few weeks. The first went out as a sequel to border clashes and the alleged violation by Mongolian patrols of the Manchukuo frontier.

CONFERENCE FAILED

It was intended, following a conference at Manchukuo, between Japanese and Mongolian representatives, to arrange for the exchange of diplomats. Manchukuo's allegation that such an exchange was necessary in order to preserve the friendly relations of the two countries and that for the protection of the 2,000,000 Mongols in Manchukuo such an arrangement was desirable on the other side, was counterbalanced, according to the Japanese view, by Russian influences at work in Mongolia. The conference failed to bring a settlement.

Great Britain, it will be recalled, has been watching developments between Manchukuo and Mongolia alertly, and there have been fears expressed that the unsatisfactory frontier situation might eventually lead to Japanese action against Mongolia which would embroil Russia against Japan.

DEBATE ON FOREIGN AFFAIRS

Italo-Abyssinia Dispute Discussed

London, Aug. 1.

The situation arising from the dispute between Italy and Abyssinia was the main subject of speeches in the debate on foreign affairs initiated by the Leader of the Opposition, Mr. George Lansbury, in the House of Commons to-day. He said the Labour Party would support the Government by every means in its power so long as the Government stood quite firmly by its obligations under the League Covenant. They did not ask the Government to act alone, but to stand without reservation by the League Covenant.

Sir Herbert Samuel agreed it was essential that Britain should act with other powers, and particularly France, and that the League should follow its own established procedure and use every effort to adopt measures of conciliation; but he said to be careful did not mean they should be weak or indifferent. It was incumbent on them to intervene strongly in the dispute and the League would fail in its duty if it failed to take cognisance of the situation.

The Foreign Minister, Sir Samuel Hoare, when he intervened in the debate, took up these references to the question before the League Council. He said that Government approached them not with a desire to make declaratory speeches, but with a realist and practical attitude, and to make every reasonable effort to avert war.

They were second to none in their intention to carry out their obligations under the treaties and Covenant.

EFFECT OF WAR

The effect of a war between Italy and Abyssinia, whether long or short, and whichever were victor would be harmful beyond exaggeration to the League. The attempt of the post-war world to substitute peaceful settlement for war would be frustrated. Small and weak countries would see the protection upon which they had been depending gravely endangered. Facts which had been laboriously concluded for the greater security of Europe would seem little more than scraps of paper.

Outside Europe reactions would be no less deplorable. For generations past Great Britain and her friends in France had been engaged in a wise and generous policy of eliminating issues between white and coloured races. War that claimed to be a war between white and black races would throw intolerable obstacles into this path of reconciliation and mutual understanding.

As he had already told the House, the Government was not unsympathetic to the Italian need for expansion and its action since the War had shown that this sympathy was more than idle words. If the Italian Government had complaints against the Abyssinian Government, let it make them in the proper and regular manner. It would find the League ready to give full and impartial consideration to the case. He said the House could rely upon the Government to use every influence available to avert the calamities which would follow war.

THE NEXT STEP

Whilst the League Council was in session he could not be precise as to the next step, or what the British Government might or might not do in situations that had not yet arisen; but he would say that so long as there was a chance of peace they would cling to it and make the most of it.

The League was dealing with a crisis. They would do everything in their power to support its influence and to take advantage of its machinery for peace. They would do everything in their power to give the fullest opportunity to the work of conciliation to be successful.

The Foreign Secretary then mentioned the question addressed to him by Sir Herbert Samuel regarding rumours that at Stressa the British and French Governments had given some kind of undertaking to the Italian Government to give Italy a free hand in Abyssinia.

"Speaking for His Majesty's Government I desire to say there is no foundation whatever for this report. I would add that the question of Abyssinia was never discussed between the delegates of the three Governments at Stressa, so far as the French Government is concerned it is for it to make an answer in its own Chamber. None the less I feel justified in saying that I am quite certain the French Government has taken no action that would be contrary to their obligations either under the Covenant or existing treaties."

DISARMAMENT

At the suggestion of the Leader of the Opposition, warmly welcomed by the Prime Minister last week, to-day's debate on International Affairs was of a general character and no resolution was moved. Mr. Lansbury deplored the failure of the Disarmament Conference and the lack of confidence manifest between the Governments of the world.

In reply the Foreign Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare, said if they had failed to achieve progress in disarmament all hoped it was due to no failure on the part of the British Government, but rather to the difficulties between certain countries in Europe, most of all to the great gulf between the points of view of France and Germany. Resumption of the conference must be in the hands of the President.

The Government would put no obstacles whatever in the way, but his own view was that no real progress would be made until somehow or other they could lessen, if not bridge, the gulf between the German and French points of view.

The Government was doing everything in its power to narrow the differences between these two Governments. It had been concentrating all efforts upon negotiations for an air pact, and when he said "air pact" he meant also, of course, air limitation. He could not very well conceive of an air pact without air limitation of some kind, nor of settlement of air questions without consideration of "bombing." He regretted he could not report further progress but no day passed without his making some new efforts to advance negotiations.

A DIFFICULT PROBLEM

London, Aug. 1.

"One of the most difficult world problems to-day is that raised by the existence of States that have Empires and States that have not," declared Sir Samuel Hoare, Foreign Secretary, during a foreign affairs debate initiated in the House of Commons to-day by censorious Opposition speeches.

Mr. George Lansbury, Labour leader, demanded two World Conferences—firstly, a disarmament conference for the purpose of abolishing aerial warfare; and secondly, the resumption of the World Economic Conference. With regard to Abyssinia, Mr. Lansbury promised the Labour support of the Government as long as it upheld the League Covenant obligations, though they did not ask that British should act alone.

Sir Herbert Samuel, (Liberal) thought it no derogation of the League if Italy, France and Britain, under the 1906 Treaty, got together on the Abyssinian question. He asked the Government to contradict the report that Italian co-operation in Central European matters was so eagerly desired that Britain and France had tied their hands by assurances given to Italy.

Sir Samuel Hoare, replying, spoke with great satisfaction caused by the United States having condemned any recourse to war. Britain, he said, was fully conscious of her Treaty and Covenant obligations, and certainly intends to maintain them.

NO RECOURSE TO WAR

After referring to Imperial versus non-Imperial countries, Sir Samuel Hoare said the way to settle these things was not by recourse to force, but by conciliation. He was nervous of World Conferences, unless they were well prepared. The Economic Conference still existed and maybe in the future we should again have recourse thereto.

Britain had already, in March, taken the initiative in favour of the abolition of aerial warfare, but it was impossible to discuss such matters without German co-operation, and at present there was a great gulf on the disarmament question between France and Germany.

In the event of hostilities in East Africa, whether the victor be Italy or Abyssinia, the effect would be immeasurably harmful to the League. It would produce endless complications, and it was for it to make

SYMPATHY WITH ITALY

"We have shown our sympathy with Italy in more than idle words," declared Sir Samuel. "If Italy has complaints against Abyssinia, let her make them in a proper and regular manner. (Loud cheers). These issues can be settled without war, which would lead to confusion in Europe; a serious weakening of the forces of peace, and a formidable unsettlement among the great coloured races of the world. Britain is using every influence to avert such a calamity."

Sir Samuel Hoare denied a report that undertakings had been given to Italy allowing her a free hand in Abyssinia.

"The state of Europe," concluded the Foreign Secretary, "remains one of gloom and apprehension. We must re-examine our resources and see that Britain is brave enough to have a firm policy for peace, and also brave enough to ensure that this world of a whole respect" (Loud cheers).

PROSPERITY IN BRITAIN

Large Expansion In Exports

London, Aug. 2.

Despite international gloom, Government supporters adjourn for the recess in good heart.

Unemployment figures, unofficially stated to be 197,000, are doubly welcome since July usually shows an increase. A month after the National Government took office the unemployed numbered 2,852,772.

Middlesbrough reports a large expansion in iron and steel exports, 39 per cent increase as compared with June. Exports of finished iron and steel are most notable, being 26,647 tons or 10,000 tons increase compared with June. There is a steady demand therefore in many parts of the world, especially South Africa, Finland, India, China, and Argentina. Many manufacturers are laying down plant to produce cold steel sheets. The promoter of the industry has hitherto been an American monopoly.

Southern and North Eastern Railways are planning extensions and electrification of their systems aggregating several millions sterling.

Comparing the first six months, the exports increased from £189 millions in 1934 to £206 millions. In 1935, imports dropped from £142 millions to £124 millions during the same period. New capital issues increased from £89 millions to £89 millions.

The holiday spirit infects all. The Bank of England returns of note circulation, always a safe index to prosperity and confidence, show £19 millions above the same week of last year. Travel records by train, road, air and water are already broken. The Railway Companies are planning a thousand extra trains during the Bank Holiday week-end. Already 4,000 sleeping berths and 13,000 train seats have been booked at Euston. Many people are going away to home and continental resorts than at any time since 1929. A feature is the record number of aeroplanes going on excursions to Hungary, a favourite destination.

BUSSON BEATS WHITCOMBE

Professionals At Malden

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 18. J. J. Busson, of the Pannal Club, Harrogate, one of the new members of the British Ryder Cup team, won the invitation professional tournament at Malden yesterday. In the final of eighteen holes he beat R. A. Whitcombe, of Parkstone, Dorset, at the twentieth hole.

Aged twenty-four, Busson is the British Match-play Champion. Two down with four holes to play, he put up a magnificent fight, his figures being 4, 3, 3, 4. He won two of the holes to square the match, and then won at the twentieth with a perfect 3. It was a courageous effort against great odds.

Twice in the early part of the match Busson pitched dead, once from a bunker, and once from the rough, to save himself. He took the lead at the fifth, where he put a long iron shot two feet from the hole for a 3. However, losing the next two holes, he was one down at the turn. The scores were:

Busson: 4, 3, 4, 4, 3, 5, 3, 4, 4, equals 34.

Whitcombe: 4, 3, 4, 4, 5, 4, 3, 3, 4, equals 34.

Whitcombe became two up at the tenth, where he played a fine spoon shot to the green. Busson being bunkered. The position was unchanged until the fifteenth, where Busson, after being over the green with his second shot, holed a putt of nine feet to win the hole in 4. He squared at the sixteenth, where he hit two great wooden-club shots to the green, and holed a putt of eight yards for an eagle 3. Putting beautifully, and with great confidence, he holed another long putt for a 3 at the seventeenth to square the match.

The last hole was halved in 4, and at the nineteenth Busson, in attempting to loft a stymie, was within a hair-breadth of knocking in the opponent's ball. This was a half in 5. The end came at the short second, where Whitcombe was over the green with his tee shot, and after pitching six feet from the hole was half-stymied. Busson won the hole in 3 for the match. The scores for the inward half were:

Busson: 5, 3, 4, 4, 3, 4, 3, 3, 4, equals 33.

Whitcombe: 4, 4, 3, 4, 3, 5, 4, 2, 4, equals 34.

Totals: Busson, 67; Whitcombe, 68.

THE SEMI-FINAL ROUND

The more interesting match of the semi-final round was that between Busson and W. J. Cox, the two youngest members of the Ryder Cup team. Busson won an exciting and hard-fought game by a hole. He deserved success because of his greater accuracy both in driving and the shots up to the green. Cox played one or two loose shots and paid the penalty in each instance.

Busson took the lead at the second hole, where his opponent was over the green on Busson became two up at the fifth, where Cox, cutting his drive, hit a tree in an attempt to reach the green. The next four holes were halved in the par figures, and with a score of 34 turned two up. Cox being 36. The figures were:

Busson: 4, 3, 4, 4, 4, 4, 3, 4, 4, equals 34.

Cox: 4, 4, 4, 4, 5, 4, 3, 4, 4, equals 36.

Busson became three up at the eleventh, where Cox completely fluffed the simplest of chip shots from just off the green. It was now or never for Cox. Making a supreme effort, he won three out of the next four holes in 3, 3, 3, 4, and squared the match. At the short twelfth, Busson took three putts for the first and only time, and at the thirteenth Cox pitched dead from a bunker.

The decisive hole was the long sixteenth, where Cox was in the rough, and could not reach the green in two shots.

Reaching the green with a drive and a spoon, Busson won the hole in 4. The seventeenth was halved in 4, and at the eighteenth Cox's approach shot had a lucky kick from the side of a bunker to the hole-side. Busson was then left with a putt of eight feet for a half in 3 and the match. He holed the putt without hesitation.

The respective scores for the inward half were:

Busson: 4, 4, 4, 4, 3, 5, 4, 4, 3, equals 35.

Cox: 4, 5, 3, 3, 4, 4, 5, 4, 3, equals 34.

Totals: Busson, 69; Cox, 70.

KENYON OUTPLAYED

In the other semi-final R. A. Whitcombe beat E. W. H. Kenyon, of West Lanes, by 3 and 1. Apart from two small mistakes, Whitcombe gave no chance. He completed the course in 67, seven strokes below the bogey score. The first was halved in a birdie 3, each player holing a good-length putt. At the third, where Whitcombe hooked a mashie shot wide of the green and took a 5, Kenyon became one up for the first and only time in the match.

Whitcombe promptly squared at the next, where he holed a putt of five yards for a birdie 3. Winning the fifth in 4, where Kenyon pulled his second shot behind a bunker, Whitcombe took definite command of the game. He turned one up with a score of 32, Kenyon being one shot more.

Faced with a dead stymie at the tenth, Kenyon became two down, but he got a hole back at the short twelfth, where Whitcombe, missing the green with his tee shot, took a 4. Still one down with three to play, Kenyon had the misfortune to be stymied at the sixteenth, which he lost to a 4. The match came to an end at the dog-legged seventeenth, where Kenyon, in attempting out of bounds, and took a 5 to Whitcombe's 3. The scores for the last nine holes were:

Whitcombe: 4, 4, 4, 4, 3, 5, 4, 3, 4, equals 35.

Kenyon: 5, 4, 3, 5, 3, 4, 5, 5, 4, equals 38.

Totals: Whitcombe, 67; Kenyon, 71.

TWO S. AFRICAN CENTURIES

Mitchell And Wade Trounce Notts

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 18. To miss a catch against the South Africans is the sure and certain way to perdition this summer, and the fielding mistake made at the beginning of Mitchell's innings on Saturday evening has had the direct consequences for Notts here to-day.

Mitchell set such a bonfire of runs alight that 496 have been scored already—the South Africans' highest figure of the tour, with Mitchell and Wade both century-makers, and 442 hit since morning.

Three great partnerships, each of them exceeding 100 runs, bore witness during the day to the complete impotence of the Notts' bowling. Bruce Mitchell had a noble part in the first two of them, and before these were ended the South Africans had taken the lead for the loss of only five wickets—and the fifth wicket had fallen only a run previously.

Seldom can the two Notts destroyers, Larwood and Voce, have been so thoroughly mastered. It must be stated in their mitigation that they were considerably handicapped from the outset by the appearance of a yawning chasm at one of the bowling ends, the South African attack having dug it unwittingly in the course of their long labours on Saturday. Nevertheless, the attack before lunch betrayed no discouragement. There was considerable menace in both Larwood and Voce until the adverse conditions became too much for them.

MITCHELL'S CHANCES

Mitchell edged Larwood riskily through the slips more than once but it was a straight and lovely drive for four that brought him his first hundred; when his superbly blended defence and attack had lasted 35 minutes.

On and on went the partnership: by one o'clock the South Africans were 153 for two. Then something untoward happened. A swinging delivery from Voce, who alone retained his menace, struck Nourse, and the batsman dropped shoulder, and at once he got the single which completed his 1,000 runs for the season—the third in the side to gain the distinction. It was pathetic to note the anxious silence of the crowd when Nourse was hurt—the Trent Bridge cup is already full to overflowing.

Just on lunch-time Nourse experienced a further misfortune; he was caught behind the wicket off the otherwise innocuous Knowles when he was within three of his 50. But he had shown a welcome return to the form during his two hours' stay.

Lunch was taken at 1.59 for four. Afterwards the pitch fairly blossomed with runs. Mitchell had long ago passed into three figures—his 100 took 3hr. 25min.—and he and his captain put on 142 at 75 an hour before he was another of Lilley's victims off Harris. Mitchell had batted five hours for his second century of the season, and he hit 16 4's.

WADE'S HUNDRED

The Notts total was beaten as soon as Dalton joined Wade, who was already in sight of his third century. At tea he was 78 out of 317 for five, and of the 78 that were knocked up in 45 minutes after tea—shades of the attack that concerned the Australians a year ago!—Wade hit the runs he needed.

The scoring was now mercurial. At 4.11 the third three-figure stand was in the books, and the South African policy was obviously to reach as rapidly as possible the security imperilled when Balaskas found himself obliged to retire from the match through a mishap caused while he fielded on Saturday.

Merrily Dalton ran along, and he, too, looked sure of a century, until at 4.25, when he was 77, he gave Lilley his fourth catch. Dalton had hit a 6 and ten 4's. Wade lost Williams at 4.4, and it was good to hear the generous applause when he flogged his 150th run off the weary bowlers just before the close.

RECREIO RINKS TO CLASH

International Teams Announced

(By "JACK-HIGH").

The draw for the semi-final open rink bowls competition was held yesterday and resulted in the two recreio teams, clashing.

Though it may be said that on present form C. G. Silva's four may be slightly the better of the two rinks, yet Alves and his men can be relied upon to give them a good run for the right to enter the final.

In the other game A. M. Holland's four should account for the K.C.C.'s four with Hyde-Lay as their skip.

Scotland, England, Portugal, India, Philippines, and Malaya entered for the "Gutierrez" International Shield, and the notable absentees this year are Australia, Wales and Switzerland.

The draw for this game will be made at a later date.

RINK COMPETITION

SEMI-FINAL

The following Semi-final in the Rink Competition matches have been drawn to be played on August 18 or before that date:—

J. E. Noronha, C. E. Marques, F. X. M. da Silva, C. G. da Silva (skip) v. L. J. Silva, L. J. Xavier, F. V. V. Ribeiro, H. A. Alves (skip).

To be played on Kowloon Bowling Green Club.

P. T. Farrell, R. Duncan, J. C. Brown, A. M. Holland (skip) v. J. W. M. Brown, R. C. Craig, E. C. Fincher, A. Hyde-Lay (skip).

To be played on Civil Service Cricket Club green.

Reuter

London, Aug. 1.

The South African cricket tourists continue to reveal winning form and in their match at the Oval against Surrey they had no difficulty in winning by an innings and 205 runs.

Bruce Mitchell, the Transvaal all-rounder, made the highest score of the tour after Surrey had been dismissed for 183 runs. He hit up 195, beating the previous best of 164 made by him in the Second Test match and by I. J. Siedle against Oxford University.

E. A. Kowan, who has now made five centuries, contributed 171 runs to the South Africans total of 572 in their second innings.

In their second innings the South Africans dismissed Surrey for 184 runs.—

HAD NO INTENTION OF LEAVING CHINA

A.-O. Bank President's Answer To Charges

Mr. Frank J. Raven, formerly president of the American-Oriental Banking Corporation, the American-Oriental Finance Corporation, the Asia Realty Company, and the Raven Trust Company, at Shanghai, in the United States Court for China, answered the bill of complaint filed by Mr. Frank L. Hough, the liquidator, on June 29.

Mr. Raven denied Mr. Hough's two principal charges, which were that the Bank has been insolvent since December 31, 1931, and that Mr. Raven owes the Bank the sum of Tls. 135,000, which he received in January, 1932, as an honorarium. He stated that at the time the Bank was solvent, and that its shares were quoted then and for some time after on the Shanghai market at twice their par value. He also stated that he repaid the Tls. 135,000 to the Raven Trust Company on February 9, 1933.

He stated that the bill of complaint served on him was unnecessary, as he had at no time had the intention of leaving China and the jurisdiction of the United States Court.

Following is the gist of Mr. Raven's answers, these being practically identical in each of the three cases—the American-Oriental Bank, the American-Oriental Finance Corporation and the Asia Realty Company:—

Defendant admits that during all of the period of five years last past, the defendant has owned and controlled a majority of the voting stock of the Raven Trust Company, Federal Inc. U.S.A., a corporation, and admits that the said corporation now owns and controls and during all of said period owned and controlled a majority of the voting stock in the American-Oriental Finance Corporation, Federal Inc. U.S.A., a corporation, and admits that the said corporation now owns and controls and during all of said period owned and controlled a majority of the voting stock in the American-Oriental Banking Corporation, but defendant denies that during all or any of the period of five years last the defendant has controlled the Bank.

Defendant denies the allegations of Paragraph 5 and alleges that the assets of the Bank on January 12, 1932, were more than twice its liabilities, excluding its capital stock, surplus, and undivided profits and that the cash on hand and in banks on that date was approximately 44 per cent. of all deposits, and that its shares of stock, were then and for some time thereafter currently quoted on the Shanghai market at more than twice their par value.

Control Denied

Defendant admits the allegations of Paragraph 6, except that defendant denies that he controlled the Bank on January 12, 1932, for the reason that the directors of the Bank were elected at all material times by the stockholders thereof with the sole object of obtaining men of representative character and ability, and the defendant never at any time voted his own shares or caused the Raven Trust Company, Federal Inc. U.S.A., to vote its shares in the American-Oriental Finance Corporation, Federal Inc. U.S.A., for the purpose of electing or opposing the election of any candidate otherwise than for the purpose aforesaid, and the said directors at all material times exercised their independent judgment, and discretion without any control, direct or indirect, of the defendant, and the defendant denies that he was present when the resolution referred to was discussed and passed, though he was present when the meeting referred to commenced. The defendant did not know prior to the meeting of January 12, 1932, that the subject of the payment of Tls. 135,000, referred to in Paragraph 6 aforesaid was under consideration, and the defendant neither asked nor suggested that said remuneration be paid to him and he had no knowledge thereof until the resolution referred to was communicated to him after the meeting aforesaid. The defendant paid the said sum of Tls. 135,000 to the Raven Trust Company, Federal Inc. U.S.A., as a donation for the purpose of increasing its liquid capital and the defendant did not then or at any time use the said sum of Tls. 135,000 or any part thereof for his personal benefit.

Expense Allowances

As to the allegations of Paragraph 7, defendant admits that he received the monthly sums and bonus as stated in said paragraph, but alleges that these were received and accepted for as expense allowance and not as salary, and defendant denies each and every other allegation of the said paragraph. The Bank was organized in the year 1917 and the defendant was the promoter and organizer thereof, but the defendant received no compensation at that time or at any time prior to January 12, 1932, for his services as promoter and organizer. The defendant acted actively and continuously as an officer of the Bank and as organizer of its affairs without any compensation other than payment of Tls. 135,000 above referred to for about 10 years after the organization of the Bank and it was well understood between the defendant and the directors that he would receive compensation for his services as promoter and organizer of the Bank and in respect of his many acts of service in bringing the Bank to prosperity when the circumstances of the Bank would warrant a reasonable payment, and in all the circumstances the payment made was reasonable.

By way of special defence, defendant alleges that any claim which the plaintiff may have by reason of the premises, is barred by the laches of the Bank in that a period more than three years has elapsed since January 12, 1932, when the plaintiff alleges that said amount was due and repayable by the Defendant to the Bank.

No Intention To Leave

By way of defence to the application for writ of ne exeat issued herein on June 29, 1935, defendant alleges that said writ was issued without notice to him and without a hearing; that the application therefore was made by the plaintiff heedlessly and without any knowledge sufficient to found a belief that the defendant was about to depart quickly from the jurisdiction of this Honourable Court. The defendant had in fact informed the plaintiff that he would not leave the jurisdiction of this Court until the affairs of the Bank, the American-Oriental Finance Corporation, the Raven Trust Company, and the Asia Realty Company were in such shape that the liquidator should consider that the defendant could go from China if he wished. The defendant expressly stated to the liquidator that he would not leave the jurisdiction of this Court at this time because his absence might be misinterpreted by some persons. The said writ was at the instance of the plaintiff served on the defendant at 10 minutes before midnight on June 29, 1935, and said service was harsh and oppressive and in violation of the Plaintiff's rights.

Wherefore the defendant prays that the Bill of Complaint herein may be dismissed at the plaintiff's costs, and the writ of ne exeat discharged without prejudice to the plaintiff's right to take such action as he may be advised in respect of any claim for damages in the matter of the alleged wrongful application for the writ of ne exeat.

RED SCOURGE IN EAST KIANGSI UPROOTED

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Hankow, July 25. The root of the Red scourge in east Kiangsi is generally believed to have been completely torn up with the capture of three of the most influential Communists, leaders near Tamoushan, a mountainous region in east Kiangsi.

News of the capture of three Red leaders has been received here from Major-General Chao Kwan-Tao, divisional commander who has been conducting a punitive campaign against Communist remnants in that section of Kiangsi.

The three captured Communists are Tang Tsai-Kong, head of the political affairs department of the Chinese Soviet regime in Fukien, Che'ang and Kiangsi; Chow Chi,

FIRE IN SHAI Scores Trapped by Blaze

Shanghai, July 30. Scores trapped, hundreds just escaping in the nick of time, such was the tale last night as the village of Tsao Nien Tung, on the Pootung shore became a raging inferno, just before 9 o'clock.

Just where the fire started could not be established last night, but it was somewhere near the south-east boundary of the packed mass of straw huts, wood huts, and smattering of more substantial dwellings that made up the big village. Shortly before 9 p.m. the alarm was raised, but so strong was the south-easterly monsoon wind last night that the alarm must have come too late for scores of unfortunate residents, most of whom were of the coolie class, and were undoubtedly trapped as they settled down for the night.

At Burnt

Tsao Nien Tung, inhabited largely by coolies and workmen, river workers, dock workers, and others travel back and forth from Nantao to their work daily, is situated just behind the Okura Wharf and the C.E.R. Yangkodo Wharf, slightly upriver from the China Merchants Yangkadoo Wharf. At least, it was situated there until last night's holocaust turned it in a mass of ashes, not one house, to all appearances, having escaped the flames.

It was no more than a bare few minutes that the flames took to sweep right across the half-mile or so of village. Those who escaped had to do so through the tortuous winding alleys, most of them getting away on the side away from the river. By one of those strange mercies which often accompany disaster, the high bamboo fence along the Okura Wharf property, was early to burn, and about three hundred villagers, who would otherwise have been certainly burned to death, escaped into a piece of vacant land inside the fence. A few had a handful of personal belongings, many had nothing. By midnight, this quiet, stricken group of people, had started to erect some sort of shelter from the wind, with a few boards salvaged somehow, and were settling down to spend the night next to their ruined homes.

At one time the blaze menaced the godowns, on the C.E.R. wharf. The staff of the wharf have, however, a few lengths of hose and a water tank for their own protection. Though this was useless to help the villagers, it did manage to save the wharf property, of which some parts on the edge nearest the village were at one time alight.

The Pootung police, attached to the Public Safety Bureau, were helpless to attempt any rescue or even investigation last night, though by dawn this morning they were busily at work.

FRAUD HINT RESENTED

Raven's Counsel's Protest

Shanghai, July 30. In a letter delivered yesterday to Mr. Frank L. Hough, liquidator of the American-Oriental Banking Corporation, Mr. Richard T. Evans, on behalf of Mr. F. J. Raven and the officers of the three Raven companies now in liquidation, said he wished to protest against allegations made by Mr. Hough in the press concerning the conduct of the affairs of the company concerned.

While he appreciated the fact that it was Mr. Hough's duty to be "fearless and outspoken," he trusted that in future he would confine himself to statements of fact, and abstain from comment concerning the former officials of these companies.

The body of the letter, which is dated July 27, contained a reply to allegations by the liquidator that the Raven companies had been insolvent for some time before they went into liquidation and the failure of the Bank had nothing to do with tight money conditions in Shanghai.

In reply, Mr. Evans said that an examination of the statements of accounts of the American-Oriental Banking Corp., the American-Oriental Finance Corp., the Raven Trust Co., and the Asia Realty Co., prepared at the end of December, 1934, would satisfy him that they were solvent then.

Higher Cash Percentage

When one took into consideration money conditions prevailing in Shanghai towards the close of 1934, he considered that the bank's cash reserve compared with that of other banks in proportion to their deposits, had a higher percentage of cash against deposits. The cash reserve became depleted as people began withdrawing their deposits due to the tight money conditions. "Now it may be," continues the letter, "that a bank ought not to lend on the shares of any of its affiliates, but that is quite another thing from saying that such lending is fraud and that it means that there is a condition of insolvency."

The full text of the letter was prepared by Mr. Evans prior to his departure for Tientsin on Saturday evening.

Chief of staff, and Hsu Yen-Yung, head of the justice department of the Red government.

ABSENCE OF CHOLERA IN SHANGHAI
Fears Unfounded

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)
Shanghai, July 30. Dr. Wu Lien-Teh, Chairman of the Central Cholera Bureau and Director of the National Quarantine Service, presents the following report on the cholera situation in Bulletin No. 2 issued this summer.

Four weeks have elapsed since Bulletin No. 1 was published. No definite case of cholera has been recorded either in Shanghai or any other city of China. Occasional cases of suspected cholera continue to be reported from Swatow and Amoy. None of these were confirmed in the laboratory, so on the whole one may say that this year has been a clean one so far.

Owing to the disastrous floods in the Yangtze and Huangho valleys, fears of outbreaks of cholera have been repeatedly mentioned in the newspapers without sufficient justification. It must be pointed out that the word "cholera" now used is definitely applied to an infectious disease caused by a specific micro-organism called the cholera vibrio, and should not therefore be loosely applied to all alimentary troubles occurring in summer.

The summer diseases hospitals, though prepared for all emergencies, seem deserted because even ordinary cases of gastro-enteritis are not common. The result is that only 40 saline infusions have been given at the Tibet Road Infectious Diseases Hospital this year.
